NUMBER 3.

How To Raise Money On Your Liberty Bonds.

As a general rule it is bad business to borrow money. However, when a man needs money he might better borrow on his assets than sell them. In fact, that is just what a business man does when he needs money. He goes to the bank and pledges his properties or whatever of value he may have as collateral for a loan. Then he pays back the loan as soon as he can in order to obtain full control of his assets again.

Apparently, there are thousands of persons in America today who do not understand a simple business transaction. Having bought Liberty Bonds and later having real or fancied need of money, they sold their bonds, sometimes for less than they could have borrowed on them. They sold them at a loss.

Don't touch your Liberty Bonds if you can help it. However, if sickness or other ill luck overtakes you and you must have money, go to any bank with your bonds and borrow the money on them. Don't go to any pawn broker or a bond "shark." Liberty Bonds are sterling collateral. Any bank will lend money on them—more money in fact, than they will lend on nearly any other security. You will find it no trouble at all. With Liberty bonds in your pocket you won't have to submit to any investigation of your affairs.

Having borrowed the money, the urge will be to pay it back. Many banks permit you to cancel such a loan by installment payments. When you have paid up the loan you will get your bonds back with the interest coupons attached. In other words, you will have met your obligations and still have your assets intact.

Hold your bonds. Borrow if you have to, but hold them.

Hoodwinking Friends of Ireland.

(Missouri State Journal.)

Democratic Senators and members of Congress have argued, upon the best of premises, that the much-vaunted sympathy of the Republican leaders for the cause of free Ireland was hypocritical and vain. The Republican party appeared, some months ago, to be tremendously interested in freeing Ireland. No one with any practical knowledge of the inside workings of the Republican party believed, however, for a single moment, that such well known victims of Anglophobia as Henry Cabot Lodge and Elihu Root were ever sincerely interested in freeing the Irish.

It now develops that the Republican party has been merely pretending and four-flushing. It has no method or means whereby substantial aid can be rendered the Irish; at least, none has been indicated by the policy of the Republican leaders in Congress. For months a resolution has been pending in the House of Representatives providing for the recognition of the Irish Republic. The Committee on Foreign Affairs in the House is overwhelmingly Republican. Nothing stood in the way of favorable action upon this resolution recognizing the Irish Republic, if the leaders chose.

Secretary Colby a few days ago informed this committee that he knew of nothing in our foreign relations which need affect the action of Congress respecting this resolution. Did the Republican committee in this Republican House proceed instantly to favorably report this resolution? No. It abandoned the resolution. It substituted for the resolution recognizing Ireland a resolution of sympathy, expressed in substantially the same terms that have many times been used by representative bodies and assemblies, official and unofficial, respecting the status of Ireland. Instead of granting recognition to the Republic of Ireland, the Republicans concluded that they could only sympathize.

The Republican interest in the Irish has been purely political. There has never been a scintilla of sincerity or honesty in it. Having misled and deceived some of the Irish leaders into honestly believing unjustified things of the League of Nations covenant, the Republican leaders hoped to appeal to Irish voters who have heretofore been Democrats, by this propaganda. We now observe how empty was their pretense and how meaningless their assurances. When confronted with an opportunity to take definite action upon a definite thing, the Republican leaders can only adopt a resolution of "sympathy for Ireland."

Arcadia Valley Cook Book.

The third edition of the Arcadia Valley Cook Book is a finished product and in the hands of the Baptist ladies.

The first two editions, as you know, were published by Mr. Eli D. Ake, senior editor of the staunch, reliable and readable Democratic paper, The IRON COUNTY REGISTER. He, again, was earnestly solicited by the ladies to print the 3d edition but for sufficient reasons given, he kindly and courteously declined, but never will the ladies forget his kindness and patience with them in many ways, viz, voluntarily inserting many free advertisements for sale of books selling many without remuneration and permitting the Saleswomen their own time in which to make their payments. Ah! those were happy days! This book is dedicated to Mrs. W. A. Fletcher and Mrs. J. N. Bishop—a complete and we hope a pleasant surprise to them. This fact attested the ability of women to keep a secret. Many thanks are given to the advertisers and various contributors of this book as well as many purchasers of same. Its quality is unsurpassed besides a lovely souvenir of Arcadia Valley. The purchase price is $2 because the printing of same almost tripled the cost of the other editions, but a guarantee is that you get your money's worth.

The proceeds of sale of this book will go towards the erection of a parsonage at some future time on the church grounds at Ironton. Yes, you may all come at once, for an Arcadia Valley Cook Book. COMMITTEE.

Mrs. White Gets Verdict for $200.

(Fredericktown Democrat-News.)

Mrs. Nannie White, proprietress of the Commercial Hotel, was given a verdict for $200 damages against the Farmington Times, in the St. Francois county circuit court Tuesday of this week.

Several weeks ago the Times published an article headed "This Was Not Jesse James," which charged that Mrs. White overcharged a party of high school girls, who spent the night at the hotel. The article contained several other statements which Mrs. White considered libelous, and she immediately brought suit against the paper for $10,000. Davis & Davis were employed as her attorneys.

The trial lasted all day Tuesday. Practically all the charges of the plaintiff were admitted by the defense who contended that an article published in the Times after the first article was discovered to be false was a retraction and apology and constituted full reparation for any injury done Mrs. White. O. L. Manger and B. H. Marbury were attorneys for the newspaper.

It developed at the trial that Rev. O'Rear, pastor of the Methodist church at Farmington, carried the first rumor to the Times and gave origin to the story that will cost the paper at least $500 when all costs are paid.

It is believed that the retraction published in the paper is the only thing that kept the jury from awarding Mrs. White much heavier damages. The jury was unanimous.

Iron Mountain to Be Rehabilitated.

(The Farmington Times.)

Again recently have the old Iron Mountain mines been taken over by new owners, and extensive plans are now being unfolded there, which have for their purpose the getting down to honest and legitimate development of that splendid property, on which mining experts generally agree is still wonderfully rich in the highest grade iron ore that has ever been discovered.

Leonard A. Busby, of Chicago, is now trustee of this extensive property, recently purchased and rescued it from the legal tangle it had gotten into by too previous owners. While the new company has not yet been organized, such organization will soon be perfected. In the meantime active development will proceed in getting the property in condition for proper development.

V. M. Lavery as superintendent is in active control of mining operations. He is a pleasing and accommodating gentleman, an expert miner who thoroughly understands the game. He said that all former operations of those mines indicated great lack of mining knowledge; that as a rule the surface had only been scratched over. He gave it as his opinion that there was still an abundance of the richest possible iron ore still there, only waiting to be taken out and transported to market.

Mr. Lavery figures that within less than two years time they will have regularly employed in the Iron Mountain mines in excess of 300 miners, which will mean the rehabilitation of the former good town of Iron Mountain. Such a number of miners will mean a town of 1500 or more souls. The hotel building is being remodeled and improved for use as a mess house for the mining staff. An extensive building plan, for the purpose of providing homes for the miners, is also being planned, work on which will soon be begun.

A small house in the hotel yard is now serving as a temporary office, but large and well equipped office quarters will soon be ready for occupancy nearer the mines, which will serve as the company's headquarters, being their only office. There seems to be small doubt that when the present owners of this great property get things running right it will not only be a great asset in St. Francois county and to miners and workmen, but that it will prove to be a wonderfully rich holding to the owners, as the rich deposits of iron ore there have evidently been little more than touched, though millions of profit have already been extracted from them.

Whenever I have taken cold, it has settled in my back and has caused awful pains. My back has become weak and I have had a great deal of misery until I would use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's always proved beneficial and gave me relief. I generally keep Doan's on hand now." Price, 60c at all dealers. C. Collins.

C. Collins was born near Piedmont, Mo., July 24, 1850, and died at Marquand, Mo., June 2, 1920, aged 69 years, 10 months and 2 days. He and Virginia S. West were united in marriage December 23, 1872. To this union were born twelve children, ten of whom are living: Mrs. A. F. Blanton, De Soto, Mo., Mrs. H. E. Homan, Marquand, Mo., H. Collins, Annapolis, Mrs. Etta Willett and Mrs. J. T. Dunn, Arcadia, Albert Collins and Mrs. Virginia Robertson, Ironton, Mrs. Geo. Smith, Clarksville, Misses Ina and Hazel Collins, Marquand. Bro. and Sister Collins have lost two children, a little boy, William, who passed away at the age of ten months, and Mae who died in April, 1919. Mr. and Mrs. Collins are the grandparents of 27 children and great grandparents of three, all of whom are living.

Bro. Collins' health has been failing for some three or four years, and although he made a hard fight for life, he lost. But he said, and we believe, has gained the heavenly, the better and eternal life.

In the death of Bro. Collins the wife has lost a good husband, the children a kind father, and the country an upright citizen. The writer of these lines, with a host of other friends, extends sympathy to the bereaved family.

The funeral took place from the home of the deceased's son-in-law,

From the Fredericktown Democrat-News: "Henry Knox, secretary of the Madison Mining Corporation, the organization controlling the tungsten deposits at Silver Mine, was here this week from his home at New York. The litigation centering around the property, Mr. Knox says, will be decided soon, and then the company will await only a fair price for tungsten ores before resuming operations. Mr. Knox says tungsten, produced by cheap labor in China, is being shipped into this country at a price far below what it can be produced for in America. However, he says Congress and the President are agreed on a tariff bill at Washington which will remedy this condition and the bill is expected to pass in the near future. As soon as a fair price is certain, the mine will resume operations on a larger scale than ever."

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, etc.
